GABRIEL SHERMAN NAMED NATIONAL AFFAIRS EDITOR AT 'NEW YORK' MAGAZINE

New York, NY, April 22, 2015 — New York editor-in-chief Adam Moss announced today that Gabriel Sherman is joining the magazine's staff as national affairs editor, effective May 1. Sherman has been on contract with New York as a contributing editor since 2008, covering the media business, real estate, and Wall Street, among other topics. In his role as national affairs editor, his beat will expand to include politics and business. In addition to writing features, he will write a regular column for the print magazine, as well as a weekly web column and digital news stories.

"Gabe has made his mark as a peerless reporter covering the seismic shifts in the media business," says Moss. "I'm thrilled that he will be coming on staff and expanding his lens to cover politics and the business world more broadly. He is a truly modern journalist, as adept at quick news breaks for the web as deeply reported features for the magazine."

Sherman has written news-making features for New York on NBC News, Rupert Murdoch, The New York Times, a Facebook scandal at Horace Mann School, Time Inc., Jeff Zucker, Stuyvesant Town, and Fox News; his reporting on Fox laid the groundwork for his biography of Roger Ailes, The Loudest Voice in the Room (Random House, 2014), a New York Times best seller. Sherman's writing has appeared in The New York Times, GQ, The New Republic, Slate, The Atlantic, and Outside Magazine, among other publications, and he was previously a staff writer for Condé Nast Portfolio and the media reporter at the New York Observer.
